

Land of Recovery

By Daniel Habermann and Amanda Waegeli

Additional Lyric by Meghan Habermann 2015

Spoken

The colours of recovery, see them in the rainbow, shine
Lights of hope, beams of joy, for those who have lost their way.

Verse One

It is a dawning of a new day, with endless possibilities
Morning's glory, red and gold, blue thru violet
Dawns Choruses the birds sing joyfully
The oceans turning azure blue, the trees all shades of green

Spoken

Sunset in all of its glory, masks the end of pains endured
And we can all bask in our own rewards

Verse Two

But there is another world; the walls drab shades of grey
Blurred images, faces all the same; all tightly inhibited
You take a few steps forward, then as many steps back
Pacing up and down that well worn track

Bridge

Since you're asking all the questions
Well here comes our reply
We don't need your judgement
We speak no words of lies

Chorus

In this land of recovery! We have the opportunity
To make a rediscovery, of who we really are,
And why we're really here

Verse Three,

There is only one which way from here
There is only one road out
To free ourselves from this merry go around
We're all moving forward and we daren't look back

Verse Four

The world just doesn't stop turning
We take it day by day
We grow and change, we laugh and play
We'll all find our own answers, one day.
